You're looking through your social media feed and trying to catch up on your friends' lives, but every picture you see makes you feel terrible. Each exciting vacation photo, cute selfie, or proud post about a new accomplishment __41__ your brain to cry out, "Why not me?" Does this sound familiar? If so, you probably have a major case of social media envy.

Envy is a painful emotion, but it's also natural. We often __42__ ourselves with others, and that isn't always a bad thing. Seeing something we wish we had can encourage us to improve our lives. Then, when we succeed, we have a healthy desire to show off our success. The problem is that most people on social media __43__ show off all the time.

When you see someone's perfect post, you might go to their profile page to see more. There, you'll likely notice that their whole life __44__ perfect compared to yours. You think you could never __45__, and the thought is enough to drive you to despair. Is there any way to stop this feeling?

四、篇章結構：5%(1% for each)

- (A) Today, it symbolizes friendship and hospitality.
 (B) Luckily, the captain found him and set him free.
 (C) This powder is mixed with cold water in a special pot that has a long handle.
 (D) However, before she does this, she will put salt in her fiancé's coffee only.
 (E) Another reason is that a drink of water helps cleanse the mouth so that the coffee's strong flavor can be better appreciated.

In Turkey, the traditions concerning coffee are an important part of the nation's culture. Coffee was introduced to Turkey in the sixteenth century during the Ottoman Empire. And the coffee's brewing method has stayed the same to this day.

To make Turkish coffee, you need freshly roasted coffee beans, which are ground into a fine powder. ____46____ Next, the small pot is put in hot sand until the coffee begins to foam. Just before it boils over, the pot is removed from the sand, and the coffee--grounds and all--is poured into tiny cups.

This process makes Turkish coffee quite strong, which is one reason that people usually have a glass of water with their coffee. ____47____ This quality of Turkish coffee makes it suitable to enjoy with sweets, which is why the hot drink is commonly enjoyed with treats like Turkish delight.

Enjoying coffee socially is a key element of Turkish culture. For example, after becoming engaged, a woman will serve her fiancé and his parents coffee. ____48____ To show he's ready to marry the woman, the man must finish his coffee without making any complaints or funny faces.

Turkish people say that "a good cup of coffee will be remembered for 40 years." This saying is based on an old story about a Turkish coffee seller. One day, he served a Greek captain some delicious coffee. Forty years later, when Turkey and Greece were at war, the coffee seller was captured. ____49____ After so many years, the captain still remembered the coffee seller as a friend.

In 2013, Turkish coffee became the first drink to be included by UNESCO as part of its Intangible Cultural Heritage list. ____50____ If you ever have the chance, try some and get a memorable taste of Turkish culture.

五、閱讀測驗：6%(2% for each)

Most of us have heard the expression "don't judge a book by its cover." It means we should try not to form opinions about people based on their appearances. This advice is wise but not always easy to follow.

I still remember my first day of high school. Walking into the classroom, I looked around to see who my new friends might be. One girl, Tina, was dressed nicely, so I thought the two of us might get along. Another girl, Lisa, seemed friendly because she smiled a lot. It wasn't long before I realized my first impressions of them were completely off. Tina and I had little in common, and Lisa was actually quite mean.

As it turned out, I became friends with someone I had ignored the first day. She seemed shy, so I didn't feel like approaching her. Still, we began talking after a while, and I soon realized how much fun she was. Today, ten years later, we're still friends. It's important to get to know the real person. Lasting friendships can be formed that way.

51. Which of the following proverbs is close in meaning to the expression "don't judge a book by its cover" in the first paragraph?

- (A) Seeing is believing.
- (B) Practice makes perfect.
- (C) Never judge by appearances.
- (D) Experience is the best teacher.

52. According to the passage, which of the following statements is true about Lisa?

- (A) She was dressed well.
- (B) Actually, she is an interesting person.

- (C) She was so shy that the author didn't want to approach her.
 (D) She looked friendly because of the big smile on her face.
 53. What is the important lesson we can learn from the passage?
 (A) Never be fooled by someone wearing a smile all the time.
 (B) Try to make friends with an open mind and without being judgmental.
 (C) Mean people may seem hard to talk to and get along with.
 (D) Always be prepared for the first day of school.

As a busy senior high school student, you must have experienced the situation of burning the midnight oil before exams. Yet, if you don't sleep for a long time, more than just your test scores may suffer. It is reported that a 17-year-old high school student, Randy Gardner, stayed awake for 264 hours, or 11 days. He did so as an experiment in order to study how he would behave without sleep. His eyes lost focus on day two. Then his ability to identify* objects was gone, and he became moody and clumsy. By the end of the experiment, he had trouble concentrating, memorizing, and distinguishing* between reality and fantasy. Although he recovered with no psychological or physical damage, the results could have been fatal*.

According to sleep experts, humans need to sleep to clear the waste products in their brains. When awake, we use up our energy sources and these sources get broken into various by-products*. As these chemical by-products build up, they increase the urge to sleep. If they are not cleared away, they can overload the brain. Accordingly, many negative symptoms* of sleep deprivation* arise.
